

CiA specification subscription form

1 Brief information about CiA specification subscription

1.1 About the subscription

CiA members are spending effort and resources to develop and maintain CiA specifications. To companies that are not able to become CiA member, CiA offers the documents in the status “Draft Status (DS)” for purchase. This way they contribute to the effort and resources spent by the developers of the specification.

CiA would prefer welcoming you as a new member in the CiA community. CiA members have free access to any document in any document status. Additionally you have access to any technical- or marketing-oriented CiA group. In a CiA group you would get important background information about the maintained CiA specification. Furthermore these groups offer great networking possibilities with other CiA members. More information about CiA membership is provided on the website:
